SPRING TRIP 2014 • GUNNISON, CO

Raftin' and A Reelin'

Strap on your vest, grab an oar and the fun will begin. Never have we seen such beauty in a boat. Gunnison Valley is ours to raft and to fish. Learning how to read the water and maneuver through the Gunnison Gorge, we will be captains of our own universe. Not only do we learn the ways of rafting, but we shall also learn the art of the cast. As captains of the universe, no fish can escape our fly fishing feats.

The cost of river guides requires that each of us must chip-in $30.

Fly fishing rod and reel needed every day in April and May.

Go, Bike. Go!

Swoop and meander velvet single-track and slick-rock in your riding mountain biking encounter with genuine Gunnison, Colorado high desert. Leading up to the trip we'll have a crash course in 1st aid, a wealth of information on camp cooking, the complete breakdown on bike maintenance, and some skills-building deconstructed by a pro. So get ready to set yourself up'on your saddle, gear up for a bit o' research, and a whole lot of bikin' fun!

School of Rock

In the heart of the Elk Mountains, surrounded by scenic views, we will climb, explore, discover and experience a new area for rock climbing: Gunnison, Colorado. Here's the beta – we will grab our carabineers and spend TWO entire days rock climbing. This is a perfect opportunity to hone your skills or try climbing for the very first time. Professional guides will take us to secret spots and sweet routes. We will leave the ropes behind for a day and explore the depths of Black Canyon, skipping rocks and looking up the cliff walls. Our crash pad will include green grass and plenty of room for a little ultimate Frisbee.

Due to professional guide fees, this trip will cost $50 per student.

"On belay?" "Belay is on."

"Climbing." "Climb on!!"
